

REMARKS

Amendment summary

Claims 14-16 are newly added. Support for these claims may be found at least, e.g., on page 12, lines 16-18 of the present specification.

No new matter is added by this Amendment, and Applicant respectfully submits that entry of this Amendment is proper.

Response to rejections based on Tsukuda

Claims 1-2, 6-8, 10, and 12 have been rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 102(c) as allegedly being anticipated by Tsukuda et al. (U.S. Patent No. 6,511,774) (hereinafter “Tsukuda”). In addition, Claims 5, 11, and 13 have been rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 103(a) as allegedly being obvious over Tsukuda. Applicants respectfully traverse on the grounds that Tsukuda does not disclose or suggest the presently recited organic fluorine-containing polymer.

The present claims recite a separator for a non-aqueous electrolyte secondary battery, where the separator comprises a shut-down layer, a heat-resistant microporous layer, and a spacer having a form of particles, fibers, net or porous film on the surface of the heat-resistant microporous layer. The heat-resistant microporous layer comprises at least one heat-resistant resin selected from resins having a temperature of deflection under load of 18.6 kg/cm<sup>2</sup> of 100°C or more, and the spacer comprises an organic fluorine-containing polymer.

As mentioned above, Tsukuda does not disclose or suggest an organic fluorine-containing polymer. The position set forth in the Office Action (see page 6) mistakenly suggests that an chlorodifluoromethylsilane is an organic compound, when it is not. Thus, Applicants respectfully submit that Tsukuda does not disclose or suggest the presently claimed invention, and respectfully request the reconsideration and withdrawal of these rejections.

Conclusion

In view of the above, reconsideration and allowance of this application are now believed to be in order, and such actions are hereby solicited. If any points remain in issue which the Examiner feels may be best resolved through a personal or telephone interview, the Examiner is kindly requested to contact the undersigned at the telephone number listed below.
